

Many properties in London were built or refurbished during periods when asbestos was commonly used in building materials, which means checks are often needed before maintenance or renovation work starts. Because every site is different, the safest approach is to inspect and sample suspected materials rather than guessing based on appearance. Supernova Asbestos Surveys offers asbestos testing london with a focus on helping clients understand results and next steps in practical terms.(Image:

For management surveys, the goal is to help support day-to-day maintenance by identifying asbestos risks in accessible areas and documenting findings in a clear report. Sampling helps confirm whether a suspected material contains asbestos and supports clearer decisions for owners, tenants, and contractors. We also support landlords and facilities teams who need HSE focused surveys for compliance planning and ongoing building management. If you are searching for asbestos testing london, a clear scope and the right survey type can make the process smoother and help projects move forward with better information
